Adapt to change

Since January this year, every shipment between the UK and the EU requires an export or import declaration, aligning with trade with the rest of the world. SGS has partnered with MAKE UK to offer its' members customs brokerage capacity located in the United Kingdom to assist with adapting to the change.

SGS are already helping thousands of companies – from SMEs to multinationals. Our fast and reliable service has been delivered for years from the Netherlands and Belgium, and increasingly the UK, making hundreds of thousands of declarations for companies across Europe.

The impact on freight

UK/EU trade is significant. Since January 2021, all UK/EU trade are subject to tariffs and customs declarations.

E-customs services for United Kingdom imports and exports

Customs is a bureaucratic area of business. For many companies it can be difficult to find the right blend of skills and experience to ensure customs compliance, for the present and the future. SGS can help.

Building on decades of experience within the group, the UK business now has significant declaration capacity based in the UK, working with indigenous companies and those based overseas, taking responsibility for declaring imports and exports of all manner of products.

Make UK members can benefit from:

● Expert Resources

We have a dedicated team of customs specialists on hand to ensure declarations and related work is completed to the highest standard, minimising costly delays and bringing certainty to your customs operations.

● Specialised Services

The business benefits from decades of experience, having delivered customs brokerage and related work across Europe covering origin, customs consultancy and more. Long-standing customers receive reviews of their trading behaviours and feedback on measures available to improve operational and financial performance. These reviews are completed by UK customs experts with significant contextual knowledge, bringing much needed surety in changing times.

● Technology-led Service

Built from and using industry leading software to reduce human error while minimising manual data entry. Customers receive regular reviews to ensure all measures are taken to minimise the time and cost attached to each import or export. Technology improves compliance, minimising customs risk in the present and future.

● UK-wide Coverage

Access to all UK port inventory systems for imports allowing for predictability of costs and faster clearance by reducing intermediaries.
